Lapis Lazuli in Afghanistan

Afghanistan has been renowned for its exquisite lapis lazuli for over 7,000 years, establishing itself as the world's premier source of this precious gemstone. Known for its deep blue color with shimmering gold specks, Afghan lapis lazuli has captivated civilizations throughout history, from the ancient Mesopotamians and Egyptians to the cultures of Greece and Rome.

Ancient Egyptians revered it, using it for jewelry and crafting blue eyeshadow reserved for royalty. Over the centuries, Afghan lapis lazuli played a pivotal role in global trade, traveling along the Silk Road to Asia, Europe, and beyond, becoming a symbol of luxury and prestige.
